

Where has Katherine Gone?

By Jerry

I have lost a part of my soul !
And now she is gone!

My life was whole and now it feels done.
Yet the house and her things are all still here.
I wander through the rooms
And see and feel her everywhere
She is Still Here !

Her shoes, her nightgowns,
her closet of clothes, with nowhere to go.
A favorite vase, a cup, a chair,
A pillow, a blanket, a picture, some scarves,
She is gone but I see her all around.

A box of jewelry with three little rings,
two special ones and the other a mystery.
Shelves filled with books and knick-knacks special to her
All now memories that will haunt me forevermore!

Each and everything she left behind
Reminds me of her loss
And my greatest fear now is my new cross.
Her soul is not gone she is still here with me
But how will I ever find her beyond the doors
Of my mind and my grief?

Katherine our journey started with three little rings,
One for a promise and memory,
and two as a pledge to our destiny.
Our journey has now been interrupted for a while
But I know it will continue again and we will be able to smile
When we meet and you take my hand and lead me to where that promised land
We will leave all this behind because it's not who we are.

I Love you Katherine and I know you Love me!
And together we share this eternity.

Katherine and Gerald,
Two souls on a Quest for love
Since 1964.

Feb 2014

