

Good Vibrations

By
Kathy
Blackburn

I transcribed this poem from Katherine as she guided me to write it for her early on a morning in April around her birthday....G. A. Blackburn

I never knew what lay beyond
As I do now, without you.

It's very bright filled with light and colors I can't describe,
This realm is so different I feel so free and light.
No more aches and pains everything seems just right.
There is no space or time here just now and vibration.

So many souls just like me looking for lives lost in memories.

My family and friends from the past share comfort with me

As I search for the answers to this world of love and reverie.

I feel safe and happy in this new home and find comfort wherever I roam..

I still live with you side by side just a slight phase out of sync

We have such different vibrations were not able to meet.

But when you need or want me I am there to help or guide you with Love and care.

This miracle of life and death amazes me in my new home

And I have still so much to learn and share

but I am waiting for you my love in all of this bliss

For the good vibrations that we will have in our eternal Kiss.

1957

16