

February 1, 2023

Echoes of My Heart

by
G. A. Blackburn

You left us that winter day in silence in a parking lot.
I watched you crossover into another time and place.
I know you are still here, I can feel you in my heart.
I listen every day for those whispers of love we share.

Our Love is True and eternal and I feel it everywhere
echoes of a lifetime of memories shared and a legacy
Of Souls we stirred.

I listen to this heart we share now for guidance to our tomorrow.

We created a beautiful family that is the echo of our love.
Our heritage from souls of yesterday has been a gift from above.

Now I hear the pleas of those who remain behind
And I patiently stay focused on sharing my love with them
but waiting for my last echo too,
Come with me my love and let us finish our eternity
Together hand in hand.

Katherine

I love you for eternity.