The Story of the Angel and the Bee.

By

G. A. Blackburn

Everything is connected in this Universe in which we live. You just need to see how.

When my beloved Angel Katherine was called back to the Stars I was lost until as I stood talking with my daughter at her departure a “Bee” landed on her shoulder. We watched it just sitting there as we continued our conversation and it was apparent for us both that there was a feeling of something special about this little miracle.

Katherine and I had spent many hours and days teaching children in our school programs. The students were very entertained by how we interacted. They took to calling us Mr. and Mrs. B. We found it flattering and it has now become evident that it is a very appropriate persona of who we are. We now share stories and still teach across the veil and the Bee has become a symbol of our connection with each other and this universe.
