

Together Apart

By
G. A. Blackburn

January 16, 2023

It was your eyes that stole my soul
On that cold February night as I became entranced with you.
We stood staring deep into our hearts
And I knew right then we could never part.

We chose a lifetime of love to share together
And never looked back as we began our eternity.
Our lives were entangled and linked our souls
As our family grew and we became one.

We dare not imagine the thought of being alone
Our days and nights were our comfort shared,
In our precious home.
But fate had arranged a different plan.

A union blessed in heaven was torn asunder
We were now apart and left to wonder,
What destiny held for us ahead
But we still felt that primal connection.

With a love like ours it becomes very clear
The bonding to one is a special gift so dear,
That cannot be broken or taken apart
Because true love is what binds us together in our hearts.

